Taken at sunset at the reception, this shot is a window reflection of the bride being positioned for her wedding portrait in front of a backdrop by the "traditional" wedding photographer.

For the past 18 years, South Florida photographer Andrew Itkoff, a graduate of Florida International University's Fine Arts program (B.F.A.), and working photojournalist, has been covering the area for every major news agency in the world. He is the winner of numerous awards for excellence in photojournalism and is the recipient of a Pulitzer Prize nomination in photography for spot news in 1992 during the aftermath of Hurricane Andrew.

Andrew's philosophy on shooting weddings:

"I approach each wedding as though I were on assignment for a major magazine. Instead of cold and staged photos, I make pictures that capture "moments". There is a way to tell a story (your wedding) without having to create that story. Every wedding I photograph includes portraits of the Bride and Groom, Bridesmaids and Groomsmen, and all family members. I cover the events before, during and after the ceremony along with the reception from limousine to cake cutting. I can genuinely say that there has never been a client who has been anything less than thrilled! Please allow me to tell your story through the use of my eye for the moment."
